Marine Paintings Presented By Woman's Club for May

Each month the Torrance Woman's club sponsors a showing by prominent local artists. Each artist brings selections of his canvasses which surround the club house walls for the pleasure and appreciation of the many who visit and meet at the club house.

This month the Torrance Woman's club is sponsoring a one man show of marine paintings by Monte Trumbull Smith. Smith is an alumnus of the College of Wooster and attended the Chicago Art Institute.

Although he did not elect to make a career of art, he has painted intermittently for forty years.

He spent thirteen years with the Standard Oil Company in China and edited their unique staff magazine known as the

"MEI FOO Shield" for which he did the covers and many drawings. While in the Orient, he illustrated a story for Harry Frank, noted as the author of "A Vagabond Journey Around the World."

A friend of his, Joe Babcock, who introduced Mah Jongg to the United States, supplied the inspiration for a cover called PA AND MAH JONGG which he did for Charles Dana Gibson's humorous weekly, "Life," counterpart to the English "Punch."

Smith's interest in the sea began in Baltimore, where, as a boy he watched the ships on Chesapeake Bay. During his service with the Standard Oil Company he crossed the Pacific eight times.

He lives in Redondo Beach. The subjects of his nine paintings being shown are: The Seductive Sea, Crescent Bay, Laguna; Ebb Tide, Wind-hounded Combers, Palos Verdes; The Running Tide's Call, Fog, Malaga Cove; Peace and Fury, S. S. MEI TAN, Yangtze Gorges, 1924; The Great Waters at Rest.
